British Premier Defends Security Pact!

BALDWIN HITS OPPOSITION TO BORDER GUARDIAN

Franco-British Accord Is Cause Of Protest By London Newspapers

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, June 10.—Premier Stanley Baldwin today rose to the defense of Franco-British accord in the proposed security pact.

In an address in the House of Commons he endeavored to iron out "misunderstandings" and scatter the opposition forces which some leading newspapers are endeavoring to array in a solid front for a stubborn war on the pact.

The premier contended that the pact worked both ways and the promise of the full military power of England to preserve Rhine frontiers was not one-sided.

He said that certain misapprehensions had arisen, but that the unsettlement as contemplated is "strictly bi-lateral and not one-sided."

It is the view of the French and British that the fullest security must be given the signatory powers, but a guilty power cannot invoke the pact to protect it in a breach of treaty obligations."

Active opposition developed today to the Franco-British accord, as announced at Geneva, and which would insure France's western borders by force of British arms.

Lord Beaverbrook's newspaper, the Daily Express, declared war upon the security pact.

Under the heading "No to the pact," the Daily Express announced it will campaign vigorously "against this diversion of traditional British policy."

Political Battle Looms

Lord Beaverbrook's opposition to the security pact is likely, in the opinion of political observers, to arouse considerable of a following. The opposition possibly might develop into a political battle such as marked the League of

'Pussyfoot' in
New Role on Liquor Issue

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 10.—A reformed William "Pussyfoot" Johnson, bringing with him new tenets of individualism, drifted into Kansas City today and deposed to gaping newspapermen that a man has as much right to drink liquor as he has to eat food which might be distasteful to others.

Johnson declared that after all his years of battling for this and that, he had decided that men and women will, after all is said and done, do about as they please, and he admitted that this was as it should be.

"Let them do it," he said. "They are living their own lives, not mine."

ARMED FORCE SEEKS DEATH STILL NEED IN WORLD AFTER GIRL ENDS LIFE

Secretary Of Navy Wilbur
Asserts Nation Must Be Ready For Action

DURHAM, N. C., June 10.—

War is a violation of common sense, but armed forces are still needed in the world because "a false doctrine may yet gain supremacy in a nation," Secretary of the Navy Wilbur declared here today in an address to the graduating class of the Duke university.

"A great nation," he said, "may run amuck and assail a peaceful and happy world with ruthless slaughter and bloodshed. We need police to protect us from the criminal and the insane, and so long as nations may be unable or unwilling to listen to reason or armies and navies.

LOCAL CHARMS SOUNDED ON TRIP

Dr. Schell Speaks In Eastern City In Favor of Plan To Join Two Cities

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Schell of Glendale, who left recently for a visit of several weeks in the east, have written the Glendale Evening News from Kansas City, Mo.

Dr. Schell writes: "I am speaking before the Lions' club next Tuesday in 'Two Cities, a Parallel and a Contrast.' The two cities will be Los Angeles and Kansas City, but during the time I shall sound the glories of Glendale, its Evening News, its beautiful foothill districts, and its high school; and express the hope that Burbank will come in and that together the enlarged city will get behind the move to bring the University of Southern California to Burbank-Glendale.

College for Glendale

"Des Moines has Drake; Topeka, Washburn; Galesburg has Knox, and Glendale, now that the U. of C. Southern branch, is safely installed in Los Angeles, ought to have University of Southern California, with the College of International Relations a part of it.

"We attend commencement at Northwestern university next week. The wedding of our daughter Katharine comes on the fifteenth. We shall land in our summer home at Ludington on June 18 and get away for Ocean Grove, Yonkers, N. Y., and Boston early in July.

"The humid heat glues our clothing to the body, and we wish that we were spending the summer in California and had access to the beaches and could have one cool night's sleep at 1606 Ridgeway drive, Glendale."

MONROSE NOTES

MONROSE, June 10.—The ways and means committee of the La Crescenta Women's club has prepared several enterprising surprises for their barn dance to be given Saturday night at the Gould ranch in La Canada. Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Slutzman of Gouldtoun the loan of the barn has been made gratis to the local club. The committee in charge under the efficient direction of Mrs. Charles Conway will serve dinner from 6:30 to 8 o'clock, dancing, which will be 5 cents a number, will begin at 8:30 o'clock. Many laugh provoking side shows and other amusements will lure the dimes from the pockets of the guests. Mrs. John Martin and Mrs. Rinette Slutzman will be in charge of the dancing.

An added attraction will be the program on the lawn in front of the barn. After the regular dinner Mr. Slutzman will sell vienors to roast to those too late to enjoy the good things prepared for them by the members of the home economics section. Mrs. Conway will be assisted by the following corps of workers: Mesdames Milo Giese, Olive Wetmore, Claire Robinson, F. G. Van Lonen, C. Merrin, H. Calkins and Lee Merritt.

For those driving over, markers are being placed on the Michigan Highway boulevard to give the traveler the direct route to the ranch. Many out-of-town parties are expected.

Montrose Parent-Teacher association will hold the regular monthly meeting on Friday, June 13, at the home of the retiring president, Mrs. C. J. Rienhard. The chief business of the day will be the installation of officers. After this procedure a lawn party in honor of the Montrose teachers will complete the afternoon. The members issue a cordial invitation to all friends of the organization to be present.

Kenneth Thompson of troop 1 of Boy Scouts of Montrose, under the auspices of Verdugo Hills Legion post No. 288, carried off first honors in the water boiling contest at the recent Verdugo Hills field day for Boy Scouts. The Montrose troop also tied for third place with Burbank in signaling.

The Verdugo Hills orchestra members donated their services for the next dance to be given by the Verdugo Hills post No. 288 at the Spar Heights Community house.

The use of the clubrooms is also being given the legionnaires gratis. The proceeds from the dance will go to the building fund for the new home of the post.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carson of Honolulu avenue entertained at dinner last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Mark S. Collins who will leave for an extended eastern trip Saturday. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Mark S. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins, Mr. and Mrs. L. Tillington and Mrs. Alice Higgins.

Mrs. A. E. Sullivan honored Mrs. Mark S. Collins and Mrs. Charles Collins at a farewell tea preceding their coming departure for a visit to their old home in Maine. The Sullivan home was beautifully decorated with bowls of brilliant nasturtiums and the tea tables were lighted with black candles in gold luster candle sticks making a most effective color scheme.

Present were Mesdames Seymour Thomas, Harvey Bissell, Thomas Minford, R. Q. MacDonald, Alice Higgins, Charles Collins, Mark Collins and Miss Ely. Mrs. Sullivan was assisted by Miss Mathilde Moissant and Mrs. Paul Farns.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Applause! That is the answer today for serious thought. If you want applause, buffoonery is the BIG business. You don't have to make fun of anyone in particular—just make people smile, or laugh out loud. They WANT to be happy. And they are having a heck of a time trying.

Yeah, Americans are willing to laugh at anything. Even adversity. They don't mind how much they are hired, or fired, or how tired they are, so long as there is something to laugh at or about. Out here in the west a man with two bits in his pocket has just as good a time as the fellow with $25 or $250 or $25,000 or $250,000.

In fact, there are a lot of us, who wouldn't trade places with the rich and retired residents of this sunken land if we had to live here. Not because it isn't a fine place to live. Uh, uh. The whole trouble is that money doesn't buy you happiness.

For instance, you buy a hilltop. Some one else buys a whole half a mountain. You build a home. Somebody competes with a castle. You can't be happy and live in a shadow, can you? Not if you are rich.

All right, let's take another tack. You marry the best looking gal in Hollywood. What happens then? Next season brings another crop of luscious beauties that make your doll look like a 1914 flivver. Verily, no amount of money can divorce 'em and "alimite" 'em fast enough. (Apologies to the patent greasing system.)

You play a good game of golf and lots of time to play it in. Along comes some little caddy wop, or some college top and makes a dub out of you. You may have made money, but the golf balls simply won't do as they are told.

So the only thing that is left for all of us, rich and poor alike, is happiness. The first essential in playing that game is to make others happy. If you do not, there isn't much chance that you will happy be, pardoning the poetic expression.

Youth is naturally happy. If it isn't, it's unnatural and needs a kick into the wide world. The chances are 100 to 1 that happiness isn't found without looking for it. That's where it differs from fame and fortune. Those who WOULD be famous never are. And fortune is fickle. Here one day, gone the next.

However, there's no need fearing that fortune will not return as quickly as it left. Too many instances to prove that there isn't good in an ill-wind.

Laugh at adversity. It never has you licked, at least not until you take the final count. Many a one living on a poor farm has come into a competence from some unknown relative. That isn't a safe gamble, but it has happened often enough.

You may not get what you want. If you had it, perhaps, you wouldn't want it. It's "wanting" things that keeps the cash registers ringing.

Suppose nobody wanted anything. Not even a laugh. It would be a sad wor-r-r-l-d, we'll say.

Pre-Inventory Sale At Wilson-Bell Store

"Although the month of June is commonly regarded by most people as a month for brides, it brings an entirely different thought to us," said S. F. Bell of the Wilson-Bell Hardware Co., 227 North Brand boulevard, today, when he called attention to the semi-annual sale of hardware that is now in progress at this big store.

"With the arrival of June, our thoughts turn to the regular June inventory, and the extra work entailed. In line with our established policy of reducing stock to the lowest possible minimum, before completing the inventory, our regular June sale of hardware is now in progress," he said.

Incidentally, this enterprising hardware firm merchandise their goods on much the same plan as any big mercantile establishment. Many items are much more reasonable at certain times in the year, than at others, and at these times the firm always plan special sales events with unusually low prices prevailing.

A visit to the store would prove enlightening to many people, for instance more than 60,000 individual items are carried in stock, everything from a lawn-mower to a roof-cap for the chimney of your home. In the display columns of this issue of The Glendale Evening News, a Wilson Bell announcement will be found that is indicative of the many bargains that are now offered in the firm's semi-annual pre-inventory sale.

Everyone In City Interested In Project Is Asked To Enter The Contest

The contest that is being conducted to find a name for the new organization that has taken over the playhouse of the Tuesday Afternoon club, is rapidly gaining headway. Already many suggestions have been received and it is expected that by Saturday night, when the contest ends, there will be so many good names that it will be hard to make the final decision.

Every Glendale resident is asked to send in as many suggestions as he or she wishes. The winner of the contest will be given two season tickets to the new theatre, which is to be a real Glendale affair.

After its first production casting nights will be announced a week in advance and anyone who is interested in the theatre will be given a try-out. It is the intention of those who have started this new movement to pattern themselves after the Theatre Guild of New York.

In sending in suggestions address them in care of the Playhouse.

SPANISH BALL FOR HOTEL OPENING

Guests to Appear in Costume of Dons and Señoritas at Coming Event

With city officials and directors of the Chamber of Commerce and their wives acting as patrons and hostesses, a great Spanish costume ball to be held coincident with the opening of the Hotel Glendale on or about July 1, will launch the wearing of Spanish dress in Glendale.

Members of the City Council, heads of city departments, chamber directors and large delegations from Glendale service clubs and other organizations will attend the ball in Spanish regalia symbolic of California life 75 years ago when the state was first admitted to the Union.

All employees of the hotel company will be attired in the dress of the Spanish dons and señoritas. The new hotel building will be specially decorated to resemble a castle in old Spain and will be made to abound with the spirit of carnival and festival in the early Spanish setting. C. W. Ingiedie, president of the hotel concern, said the exact date of the opening has not been decided upon, although it will be some time between July 1 and 8. The exact date of the Spanish ball will be announced by George F. Orgibet, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Jubilee Year committee.

Plan Reception

In order to stimulate interest in the wearing of Spanish dress generally throughout Glendale, chamber directors will appear before Glendale service clubs with a special invitation for members to attend the ball with their wives and friends. Directors at their meeting yesterday afternoon pledged themselves to "pioneer" the costume idea by donning the official dress, light trousers, silk sash, light shirt without coat and vest, and sombrero.

In addition to the Spanish ball there will be a reception at the Hotel Glendale for those who do not wish to dance. Chairman Orgibet announced. Officials of the All Year Club, sponsors of the Fifty-fifth Jubilee Year celebrations throughout the state, and officers of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and civic organizations will be guests of honor at the reception and ball.

Cork, Ireland, plans to enlarge its waterworks, pave more streets and build 200 new houses.

DRAMA DEPARTMENT PRESENTS PROGRAM

Four One-Act Plays Feature Meeting of Tuesday Afternoon Club; Under Direction of Mrs. R. E. Chase

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff.

Accomplishments of the drama department of the Tuesday Afternoon club were reflected yesterday afternoon in the program presented before the club under the direction of Mrs. Raymond E. Chase, past curator of the department, and widely known for her successes in the dramatic world. The large auditorium was crowded with members and guests, all generous in praise of Mrs. Chase and those participating in the program.

Of special interest was the curtain raiser, "If the Shoe Fits...," written by Mrs. Max Lynn Green, past curator of the drama department. Ever since the announcement that Mrs. Green's sketch was awarded second prize in the contest staged by the Americanization department of Los Angeles district, club members have anticipated a presentation of the play.

Mrs. Green cleverly upholds observation of the laws of America, in a scene in the living room of an American home. Those who heard Sheriff William Traeger speak last year before the Glendale College Women's club, sense her inspiration for bringing out the responsibility of American parents in influencing their children.

Mrs. Green appeared in the part of the mother, and gave splendid portrayal. Others in the cast were R. Ernest Tucker, Mrs. T. C. Young, Mrs. Charles H. Gowen; and as children, Charles Temple, Jr., Barbara Green, Howard Kent and Phoebe Vandewater.

Three one-act plays followed:

"The Reader," by Ada Tully Ammerman; "Such Is Fame," by Herbert Swears; and "Smarty's Party," by George Kelly. Of the three, the last one, which had its premiere at the Palace theatre, New York, was undoubtedly the most finished piece of work, and the most entertaining, probably because it was more unusual than the others.

Members of Cast

There are four characters in "Smarty's Party," the mother, the son, his wife and the maid, played by Mrs. H. C. Vandewater, George Jensen, Mrs. Charles Gowen, Mrs. Malvern C. Barker. Mrs. Vandewater gave studied character delineation, and club members had opportunity to learn of her real dramatic talent. Mr. Jensen and Mrs. Gowen were delightfully convincing as the new play. Sharing honors with them was Mrs. Malvern C. Barker, whose previous talented acting in club and other productions,

Luncheon Program

At the club luncheon preceding the afternoon meeting and program, the parliamentary law and drama departments had special tables.

Mrs. Charles S. McKelvey, district and state parliamentarian, was one of the luncheon speakers. At the drama table

Mrs. Beulah Wright Comstock, instructor of the drama department, and her friend, Mrs. Oscar Heiserman of Iowa, were guests.

Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones, president of Glendale Music club, was also a luncheon guest and speaker.

Many visiting club women from California and other states were present.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, club president and luncheon hostess, presented as other speakers, Mrs. C. S. Taylor, junior past president of Pasadena Shakespeare club, and Mrs. Craig of Los Angeles Ebell club. Vocal selections were artistically presented by Edith Sinclair Lemon, accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Ripley.

DRAMA PUPILS OPEN BIDS ON NEW ANNEX TOMORROW

Burbank High School Class And Eagle Rock Players Lead In Eisteddfod

Contract May Be Awarded By Council On Proposed City Hall Project

Bids will be opened tomorrow by the City Council for the construction of the proposed annex to the city hall, to be erected in the rear of the present building, plans for which have been completed by the architects, Arthur G. Lindley and Charles R. Selkirk.

A number of protests, it is understood, will be lodged with the council over the proposed annex. A committee representing the Glendale Municipal league will be present to urge rejection of the bids and rescission of the council's former action when resolutions providing for the building were adopted. Protestants as yet have not revealed the line of their attack.

Use Surplus Funds

The expense of the structure will be borne from the surplus during the present fiscal year. Savings made in the various municipal departments have created fund sufficiently large to defray the entire cost of building, it is said.

Eagle Rock First

In a presentation so evenly balanced and well done that even judges, who were experts of the drama, marveled, the Eagle Rock players, under Elgie Lowry Fischer, won first place in the adult drama group. Their play, "The Sweetmeat Game," depicted the home of a Chinese merchant in an American Chinatown, weaving the story around the nearly tragic fate of his beautiful young wife and the loneliness of an afflicted son. The parts were admirably portrayed by Merwin Gouldthrite, Elkie Lowry Fischer and Frederick H. Beach. Joseph L. Fischer also did good work as a member of the cast.

Running a close second to the Eagle Rock players, Alhambra Community Theatre players took second place in the drama competitions. Their presentation of "My Lady Dreams," a fantasy, was roundly applauded. The Alhambra players, winners of first in the Pomona district contests, were under the direction of Richard Sterling.

Other drama contestants were the Angels Players, winners in the Los Angeles metropolitan district, under the direction of Victoria Fisher, and Ventura County post, American Legion under W. E. Parsons.

NEW TRAFFIC ARTERY FOR ATWATER, PLAN

Proposed Thoroughfare Would Connect Burbank and District; Widening of Brunswick Avenue Advocated

Opening of a new traffic artery which will give a more direct thoroughfare from the Atwater district through to Burbank and the San Fernando valley is being projected by Atwater and Park avenue property owners.

It is proposed to widen and extend Brunswick avenue through the Walnut Grove district as far as Park avenue where it will meet Buell street, continuing on to Burbank. Where the street is already open through Walnut Grove it will be necessary to condemn an additional strip of land for widening. Condemnation proceedings will also be necessary in order to open the road from its present terminus as far as Park avenue. Streets and bridges committees of the Atwater and Park Avenue Improvement associations met yesterday to formulate plans for opening the new street.

Plan Membership Drive

A campaign to enroll 1900 members in the Atwater Community Improvement association will be launched under the direction of President Arthur M. Gilman and J. R. Hurley, chairman of the membership committee. Plans for the campaign will be announced at a meeting of committee chairmen and executive officers that will be held shortly.

President Gilman announced that the meeting of committee heads scheduled for Friday night will be postponed until a later date. The Atwater Improvement association, embracing all the members of the Atwater section and Walnut Grove, has functioned for more than two years in the capacity of a Chamber of Commerce in the district. The present membership of the organization is approximately 350.

Plan New Cells

The plans provide for housing the police department in the basement, where a modern jail will be installed, with offices and accommodation for the various police departments. The cells to be installed will be of the most improved type, four for men and two for women.

On the first floor the engineering and building departments will be housed, with quarters for the Glendale Planning commission. These departments are now located on the second floor of a nearby building.

CITY AND COUNTRY PLANNING

The great American cities are suffering with indigestion of population and the rural districts are starving for people, according to Thomas Adams, well-known authority on city planning. He would have the economists, the real estate owners, the city planners and the people all adopt the slogan, "Spread the population."

We have been accustomed to thinking of the traffic problem of Los Angeles, for example, as a matter for that city alone to consider, but this authority contends that city planning and country planning is all one big national problem. It is hard to make a man who is caught in traffic congestion really see what the matter is. If he travels two hours daily to and from his work he thinks he is the victim of necessity or of progress. If his automobile or the street car in which he is riding is held up in traffic he thinks it a matter of street widening or traffic regulation. Yet wider streets and better transportation facilities only make it easier for people to crowd together toward the center, and congestion increases that much more.

While crowding has produced enormous land values in the big cities, an inflated value in one spot means a depressed value in another, and the narrow street and crowded tenement on one hand and the abandoned farm on the other can be traced to the same cause.

"City planning and country planning are parts of the same problem," says Mr. Adams, "for they both have to do with putting the population where each individual will have the best time and do the most good."

There is a tendency for the people in the rural districts, especially young people, to gravitate toward the centers of population, but the congestion in the cities is not all due to a love of the bright lights, by any means. Thousands of people are dwelling and working in the midst of a human maelstrom because they cannot get out of it. They are fairly caught and are being whirled around and around by the force of circumstances and the fact they are not strong enough to stem the tide. It is well enough to talk of normal living conditions in the country but they are not so easy of accomplishment. Many a man spends his life bending over a desk in an electrically-lighted city office, fighting his way on crowded cars to and from a beehive, an apartment house where scores of families are living the same kind of an artificial life as his own. And this man's dream is of the country. But the little he is able to save is not a drop in the bucket for, although the vacant land may be crying for tenants, it is not to be had for the asking and many times this city man could not make a living on a farm if he had the farm. And the situation of the rancher and farmer today is not so attractive that the man who is able to earn a steady wage wants to take a chance, even for the joy and freedom of life in the country. Suburban districts solve the problem of better living conditions but they do not relieve the congestion in the business centers of large cities.

As Mr. Adams says, the question is not a local one. The time is coming soon when there must be an adjustment between the city and the country. The traffic situation in the city and the economic status of the farmer are parts of one and the same problem.

Perhaps there is no place in the United States where this problem has a tendency to work itself out more happily than in Glendale. We have been drawing population rapidly and steadily but without crowding. As the city has grown it has spread out over the hills and into the canyons and even our several business centers are expanding in such a way as not to invite congestion. Also our growing industries and business concerns are making it possible for more and more of our people to find work at home thus helping to relieve the congestion in the down-town district of Los Angeles.

THE MEMORIAL BUILDING

The people of Glendale are to be asked next Tuesday to vote $150,000 bonds for a Memorial building. This is a proposition that is worthy of serious thought. It is planned to locate the building at the foot of the mountains near the head of Louise street on a site of about two acres, which came into possession of the city ten or eleven years ago with property taken over from the late L. C. Brand, when the city purchased the water plant from him. A reservoir was located upon it for a time, and later it was presented to the Glendale post of the American Legion. The legion has not the means to build; has agreed to give this land back to the city; and with other patriotic organizations of Glendale is asking that it be used as a site for a Memorial hall to be built by bond issue for the use of all these organizations and as a memorial to our soldiers of all wars.

The editor of The Glendale Evening News has given this question careful thought and has come to the conclusion that he will support the proposition, personally. He feels that it is worth the price to do honor to the Glendale boys who served their country so valiantly, to provide a home for all the organizations in this city who are fostering good citizenship, teaching patriotism and exalting the flag, and to provide a general meeting place.

But we do not presume to dictate to our readers. They are capable of thinking this out and making their own decisions. It is the duty of every voter to give the matter serious consideration and to decide for himself whether or not he can support it. After all, it is a personal matter. Every citizen knows his own ability to meet his assessments and taxes; he knows the financial status of the city. Also, he should look at the question from the higher standpoint of the good of the community as a whole, in so far as he can.

We do not ask you to support the proposition because we are going to support it. We ask only that you consider it seriously, read the articles that are presented from day to day in the columns of this paper and come to your own conclusions after getting all the facts in the case. It is the people who must pay the bill, hence it is the people who should make the decision. The people of Glendale are alert on all questions that concern their interests and the interests of the community. Furthermore, they are intelligent. And they will speak next Tuesday.

International Law

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There are many people who do not understand how laws are made.

The only laws that we can be assured can be kept are those of the crystallization of public opinion.

For this reason international law is at present in a state of growth.

It is made up of the precedents that take place in the action between nations.

Mr. Hughes, the former secretary of state of the United States, speaking of the development of international law, thinks that the United States ought to take the lead in developing a permanent court of international justice.

With such a court established in some way, he says, "Not improbably the nations of the world may thus be led to avail themselves more readily of the necessary international legislative processes to perfect the law and to satisfy enlarged conceptions of international justice." International law when properly developed can be the greatest guarantee to this.

What the nations need to do is to see that appeal to law is more efficacious than an appeal to force. This can only be accomplished by establishing and confirming international law.

What most people do not seem to realize is that law cannot be promulgated from authority and expect to be obeyed. It must grow from precedent to precedent.

The growth of international law is necessarily slow, as with all nations it is considered a virtue to be ready to fight.

With worldwide development of international law, Mr. Hughes says, "We may hope to make measurable progress to that degree of civilization which will prosper the efforts of conciliation in the area outside the law."

Mr. Hughes cited the relations between the United States and Canada as an excellent example of peace between nations.

All things that have a stable basis and cannot be shaken are matters of growth, and while the growth of international law seems very slow, it is growing, and in course of time will be dependable.

The best hope of the world for peace is a reliance upon law and resort to it as a cheaper and better method than that of force.

In after days when grasses high

O'er-top the stone where I shall lie.

Though ill or well the world adjust

My slender claim to honour'd dust,

Hard To Select Jury In Camp Death Case

HANFORD, Cal., June 10.—Seventy-five new names for possible jury service in the Lee Camp death case were being summoned here today following exhaustion of a second venire late yesterday with only seven prospective jurors in the box. Court was adjourned by Superior Judge K. Vanzante until Friday morning when the trial of Mrs. W. Stanton Brown, Fred Mills, John Tipton and Robert McComish, charged with the murder of Camp, will be resumed.

Up to the present time two hundred and fifty citizens have been examined for jury service but all have expressed such strong opinions in the case that they had to be dismissed.

The four defendants are charged with the murder of Camp to get control of an estate valued at from $50,000 to $200,000 willed to Mrs. Brown, his foster mother. All seven of the jurors so far selected are still subject to peremptory challenges.

ANTI-FOREIGN CHINA RIOT CONTINUES

American Mission Leaders Testify That Shooting Was Not Necessary

SHANGHAI, June 10.—Shooting of twelve Chinese student demonstrators here May 30 by members of the international settlement police force was uncalled for, according to testimony given before the Shanghai mixed court today by several American Methodist missionaries. The shooting resulted in the present anti-foreign strike in this city, involving nearly 200,000 Chinese.

Today's missionary testimony was in direct contradiction to that of the police inspector who ordered the shooting. The officer said his action was the only way to dispel the mob which was threatening the Louza jail, where several students were under arrest for disorderly agitation.

TRIAL WAS ORDERLY

The trial of the student agitators was proceeding in orderly fashion in the mixed court before American Assessor Jacobs and Chinese Magistrate Kwan, the court suspending all rules and admitting all testimony in order to obtain the fullest publicity regarding the shootings.

Twenty-five British and five Japanese river and coast steamers were tied up at the Shanghai docks today as a result of the strike, which includes thousands of Chinese seamen.

There were no further disorders reported. The general strike situation remains unchanged, although a few shops are reopening.

Entrants in the tennis tournament were Mrs. E. L. Osborn, Mrs. Ruth Windrem, Mrs. J. J. Campbell, Mrs. C. M. Conkling, Mrs. Garnet McCabe, Miss Jessie Bersticker, Mrs. W. J. Sprauer and Mrs. F. W. Stern. Mrs. Sprauer played with Mrs. Stern. Mrs. Stern won by a point score of 63 1/2; Mrs. Arnold was second with a score of 58 points, and Mrs. Toal third with a score of 57 points. Judges for swimming were Mrs. Lawton, Y. W. C. A. instructor, and Mrs. Charles Doye.

CALISTHENICS FEATURE

Of special interest was the calisthenics work, presented by members of the class who have met weekly at Harvard High school night session under the direction of Miss Frances Blanchard.

Judges were Miss Knight and Miss Haberman of the Glendale High school, and Mrs. Doye.

There was a grand march under protection of American flags, Mrs. Paul E. Webb at the piano, general calisthenic and flag drills, star wheel and folk dances.

Mrs. W. R. Dougherty won first place in the drill and dancing, with Mrs. C. O. Siewert second in drill and Mrs. O. C. Wernzt second in dancing. Following the program there was an exciting relay race.

Mrs. Helen Siewert is general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Pauline McDowell, calisthenics; Mrs. Garnet McCabe, tennis; Mrs. Irene Wernzt, swimming; Mrs. George Postle, golf, and Mrs. R. D. Stinson, hiking. They will meet at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at Mrs. McDowell's home, 233 Richland avenue.

THE STATE HIGHWAY

commission has advertised for bids for work on the highway, in which is included the widening of the highway from La Canada to Sunland, a distance of eight and thirteen-hundredths miles. A two-and-one-half-foot shoulder will be constructed on each side of the present fifteen-foot concrete road, making the highway 20 feet in width.

The members of the Valley Center Improvement League and their families to the number of about fifty, picnicked in Big Tujunga canyon at Hansen lodge. En route the party halted while the site of the proposed dam was pointed out by President Kirschman, and a general account of the project given. The party enjoyed a bountiful picnic lunch under the live oaks at the lodge.

Games under the direction of Mr. Notte, music on various instruments by Mr. Dickson and hikes in the mountains occupied the time until the party decided it was time to be homeward bound.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Kirschman are en route on a vacation trip by auto to the northern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Cass M. Shaw are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Henry at their home on Hill street.

The HOUSE Of ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON
Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"We were utterly in despair," Betty continued. "For Madame, of course, was really ill with her heart, and we always feared some tragedy would happen. This letter which Ann was to write when I was at Monsieur du Pouilliac's ball seemed our one chance. It was to a doctor in England—he called himself a doctor at all events—who advertised that he had a certain remedy which could be given without the patient's knowledge in her food and drink. Oh, I had no faith in it, but we had got to try it."

Hanaud looked round at Frobisher triumphantly.

"What did I say to you, Monsieur Frobisher, when you wanted to ask a question about this letter? You see! These things disclose themselves in their due order if you leave them alone."

The triumph went out of his voice. He rose to his feet and, bowing to Betty with an unaffected stateliness and respect, he handed her back the photographs.

"Mademoiselle, I am very sorry," he said. "It is clear that you and your friend have lived among difficulties which we did not suspect. And, for the secret, I shall do what I can."

Jim quite forgave him the snub which had been administered to him for the excellence of his manner towards Betty. He had a hope even that now he would forswear his creed, so that the secret might still be kept and the young sentinels receive their reward for their close watch. But Hanaud sat down again in his chair, and once more turned toward Ann Upcott.

He meant to go on then. He would not leave well alone. Jim was all the more disappointed, because he could not but realize that the case was more and clearly building itself from something unsubstantial into something solid, from a conjecture to an argument—this case against some one.

CHAPTER TEN THE CLOCK UPON THE CABINET

Ann Upcott's story was in the light of this new disclosure intelligible enough. Standing in the darkness, she had heard, as she thought, Mrs. Harlowe in one of her violent outbursts. Then with a sense of relief she had understood that Jeanne Baudin, the nurse, was with Mrs. Harlowe, controlling and restraining her and finally administering some sedative. She had heard the outcries diminish and cease and a final whisper from the nurse to her patient or even perhaps to herself, "That will do now." Then she had turned and fled, taking care to attract no attention to herself. Real cowardice had nothing to do with her flight. The crisis was over. Her intervention, which before would only have been a provocation to a wilder outburst on the part of Mrs. Harlowe, was now altogether without excuse. It would once more have aroused the invalid, and next day would have added to the discomfort and awkwardness of life in the Maison Grenelle. For Mrs. Harlowe, sober, would have known that Ann had been a witness of one more of her dreadful exhibitions. The best thing which Ann could do, she did, given that her interpretation of the scene was the true one. She ran noiselessly back in the darkness to her room.

"Yes," said Hanaud. "But you believe now that your interpretation was not correct. You believe now that while you stood in the darkness with the door open and the light beyond, Madame Harlowe was being murdered, coldly and cruelly murdered a few feet away from you."

Ann Upcott shivered from head to foot.

"I don't want to believe it," she cried. "It's too horrible."

"You believe now that the one who whispered 'That will do now,' was not Jeanne Baudin," Hanaud insisted, "but some unknown person, and that the whisper was uttered after murder had been done to a third person in that room."

Ann twisted her body from this side to that; she wrung her hands.

"I am afraid of it!" she moaned.

"And what is torturing you now, Mademoiselle, is remorse that you did not step silently forward and from the darkness of the treasure room look through that lighted doorway." He spoke with a great consideration and his insight into her distress was in its way a solace to her.

"Yes," she exclaimed eagerly. "I told you this morning I could have hindered it. I didn't understand until this morning. You see, that night something else happened," and now, indeed, started to draw the color from her cheeks and shone in her eyes.

"Something else?" Betty asked with a quick in draw of her breath, and she shifted her chair a little so that she might face Ann. She was wearing a black coat over a white silk shirt open at the throat, and she took her handkerchief from a side pocket of the coat and drew it across her forehead.

"Yes, Mademoiselle," Hanaud explained. "It is clear that something else happened that night to your friend, something which, taken together with our talk this morning over the book of arrows, had made her believe that murder was done." He looked at Ann. "You went then to your room?"

Ann resumed her story.

"I went to bed. I was very—what shall I say?—disturbed by Madame's outburst, as I thought it. One never knew what was going to happen in this house. It was on my nerves. For a time I tumbled from side to side in my bed. I was in a fever. Then suddenly I was asleep, sound asleep. But only for a time. I woke up and it was still pitch dark in my room. There was not a thread of light from the shutters. I turned over from my side on to my back and I stretched out my arms above my head. As God is my Judge I touched a face—and even after all these days the terror of that moment was so vivid and fresh to her that she shuddered and a little sob broke from her lips. 'A face quite close to me, bending over me, in silence. I drew my hands away with a gasp. My heart was in my throat. I lay just for a second or two dumb, paralyzed. Then my voice came back to me and I screamed."

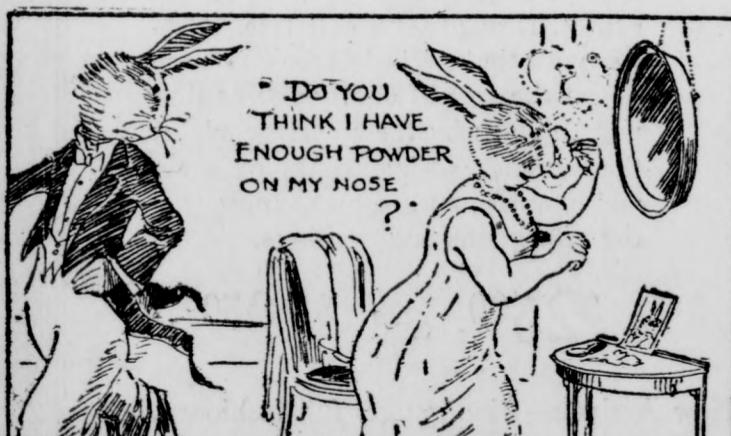

It was the look of the girl as she told her story, perhaps, more than the words she used; but something of her terror spread like a contagion among her hearers. Jim Frobisher's shoulders worked uneasily. Betty, with her big eyes wide open, her breath suspended, hung upon Ann's narrative. Hanaud himself said:

"You screamed? I do not wonder."

"I knew that no one could hear me and that lying down I was helpless," Ann continued. "I sprang out of bed in a panic, and now I touched no one. I was so scared out of my wits that I had lost all sense of direction. I should have heard a spider stir. I couldn't find the switch of the "Then why in the world didn't you ask them to stop?" inquired Mr. Longears. "They would not have pelted you if you had told them not to."

"Oh—why—I never thought of that," cried the Doodle Bug. "I should have done so—shouldn't I?"

"Of course, you poor, silly little chap," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "But, being a Doodle Bug you know no better. However, now you are all right."

"Yes, thanks to you," said the Bug skidding about on top of the water. "I wish I could do you a favor, Uncle Wiggily. But I am too silly to think of a way."

However, as it happened, that very same day the Doodle Bug helped the bunny. Uncle Wiggily after hopping a long way to look for an adventure, but finding none, fell asleep beside the Doodle Bug's pool. And as the rabbit slept, the fierce Otter, swimming up the stream, crept out to nibble the rabbit's ear. But the Doodle Bug saw the Otter, and knowing what would happen, the Bug skidded up to where Uncle Wiggily was asleep, crying:

"Awake! Awake! Hop away on the Otter will get you." And the rabbit gentleman jumped up quickly, and hopped home to his bungalow before any harm could happen to him.

"Good for you, Doodle Bug!" cried Uncle Wiggily, when he was safe. "You are smarter than I thought you were and you did me a favor." And the Doodle Bug was much pleased with himself. But still he never grew up

THE STAFF OF LIFE (Part 2)

One of my "best meal" memories takes me back to the dinner of 1919. I was with a few members of the American Red Cross, returning in a Ford campaign (covered wagon) from a relief expedition to the suffering people of Melamovatz and Majdan Pek, two little towns in the northern part of Serbia. We had given out all our supplies as we thought we could reach before midnight a little town en route, where we heard there was an inn. Night came on with total darkness and a driving sleet. Something went wrong with the machine which our mechanic could not adjust in the darkness, and we had to spend the night on the road.

As soon as daylight arrived, the camion was fixed and we started on our journey. After three hours, we arrived at the little inn, all of us cold, weary and famished. All our genial Serbian host had to offer us was scrambled eggs, black bread and sweet Turkish coffee. Mamma! My mouth waters when I think of what a wonderful meal it was.

Yesterday I told you of my meal of bread and milk, another of my "best meal" memories.

Bread has always been the very foundation of diet. Among the primitive peoples bread was made by grinding the grains on stones, mixing with water and baking in flat cakes on hot stones. These types of bread, when crisp and fresh, are delicious.

Before the perfection of our modern scientific bakeries, bread making used to be one of the big problems of the housewife. When home made bread is successful, there is nothing more delicious, but apparently it is a difficult process—the dough either ferments too much or too little, or in the process of rising, it falls because of the slam of a door, etc., and the result is uncertain.

Nowadays by far the larger share of our bread is furnished by the bakers, and the baking today represents the sixth largest industry in the United States. The shop of the modern baker is a model of sanitation from which many housewives might get valuable lessons. The conscientious baker (and I believe most of them come in this class) use high class ingredients and scientific methods of baking, and the loaf he produces is of uniform consistency, weight and excellence.

As the demand for the whole wheat increases, he is meeting it. This demand is based upon sound reasoning, for the whole wheat bread, while not so completely digested as the white bread, is of greater food value on account of the better grade of protein and the greater Though Sirup: Bring to the boiling point one part of sugar and two parts of water.

Medium-thin Sirup: Bring to the boiling point one part of sugar and two parts of water.

Thin Sirup: Bring to the boiling point one part of sugar and three parts of water.

Miscellaneous Circular No. 24, published by the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., advises a short precooking of fruits before placing them in the hot, sterilized jar and says: "No food value is lost if the liquor in which the fruit is cooked is used instead of water to make the sirup. The material should be filled into the jars as hot as possible so as to decrease the time required for the fruit in the center of the jar to reach the temperature of the water in the canner during processing."

To can any of the above-named fruits, put them over the fire in water to cover well, bring to the boiling point and let simmer two or three minutes, then drain the fruit from the water, and pack it at once into the hot jars, keeping these jars hot by wrapping them in towels wrung from hot water. Use the water from which the fruit was drained, to make the sirup according to the recipes given above.

After adding this hot sirup to the fruit-packed jar, put on new rubber, the glass cover and put top wire up but do not press down side wire; stand the jar on a rack in your wash boiler, in this way, in boiling water which rises almost to jar-top. Let water continue to boil around jar for five minutes, merely to create a vacuum seal. Take out, press down side wire to completely seal, then label and store. Tomorrow—Painting a Silk Neck-scarf

TRUCKS, MAILMEN MUST PLAY AGAIN

Game Halted By Time Limit
When Score Is 14 All;
Plenty Of Errors

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff

Another upset in the Twilight game almost being marked down in the score book yesterday when the Huli Trucks and the Postoffice crew tangled at Broadway High school grounds. The melee was ended when the time limit of 7 o'clock had been reached, and inasmuch as four full innings had not been played, the contest was declared no game, which means it will all have to be played over again.

When time was called by Umpire Butterfield, the score stood 14 to 14, the mailmen were at bat, two men were down and one man on second base. The head of the batting list was up, so it is hard to say what might have happened.

The game was one of hits, runs and errors, and then more errors. The mailmen got six men on first base on errors, and the truckmen got two men on first base by the same reason. Four errors accounted for runs. There were thirteen errors committed, eight by the truckmen and five by the postoffice crew.

In the first half of the third inning, thirteen mailmen faced the Huli Truck's pitchers. Two of the thirteen fanned, one died on third base, one went out on a foul that Fansett made a wonderful running catch on, and the rest scored. Only six of the thirteen men got hits that inning.

The summary, up to the time the game was called, shows: Postoffice—At bat, 26; runs, 14; hits, 9; putouts, 9; assists, 4; errors, 5; stolen bases, 5; left on bases, 5; first base on errors, 2.

Home runs were pounded out by both teams. Richards, H. Doll rapped out a smashing triple in the third and romped home when the throw to the plate was wide.

Fueling and Fansett, also connected for triples. Selover and Shoemaker got doubles. Of the twenty hits, only seven were extra-base bingles.

Richards started on the mound for the mailmen, and was replaced at the start of the second by Bush. The truckmen gathered eleven runs and six hits off Fansett, and got three runs and three hits off Doll. Doll walked one man, Richards walked three, and Bush gave free transportation to one. Doll fanned five and Richards fanned two. One double play was made—H. Doll to Ray Doll, in the second inning. The score by innings:

|-------------|---|---|---|----|---|---|---|---|----|----|----|----|----|
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 | 12 | 13 | 14 |
| Postoffice | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| Hits | 4 | 1 | 9 | 14 | | | | | | | | | |
| Huli Trucks | 2 | 1 | 6 | 9 | | | | | | | | | |
| Hits | 8 | 2 | 4 | 14 | | | | | | | | | |
| | 4 | 2 | 5 | 11 | | | | | | | | | |

HOMER WINS GAME

Chicago's golden jubilee celebration proved a New York banquet when Terry socked a homer off Bush with two on in the fifth, the Giants winning, 9 to 7.

VANCE HIT HARD

Sothorn made the Dodgers jump through a hoop while the Cards rushed Vance off the premises and won, 5 to 1.

REALTY BOARD BROCK TAKES TO HELP IN ELECTION

NEW OFFICE WITH LIONS

Plan To Provide Automobiles To Transport Voters To Polls Tuesday

The Glendale Realty board, supporting the proposed $1,237,000 elementary school bond issue to be voted upon next Tuesday, will furnish all the automobiles required to transport voters to the polls, the campaign committee of fifteen was told by Miss Leora Forr, chairman of the realty board committee, at a meeting last night.

W. E. Hewitt, chairman of the campaign publicity committee, announced that members of the Glendale Ministerial association, solicited for their support, had agreed to aid. Advertisements are being inserted regularly, he said, urging voters to cast their ballot for the proposed bond issue, and slides have been prepared for use in local theatres.

Captains Report

Reports were given by precinct captains, some of whom told of house to house canvassing, others mailing literature favorable to the proposed bond issue, and others of distributing literature broadcast by the use of boys. Alex Mitchell, chairman of the campaign committee, presided. It was the last session prior to the election.

The Board of Education last night accepted the resignation of Miss Caroline Rae Ainsworth, teacher in the Glendale Intermediate school, who will be married soon. Business Manager John T. Cate was authorized to have furniture damaged in the Doran school fire refinished and installed in the new building it is planned to erect there.

Armed Force Still Need, Says Navy's Secretary

We may broaden this and say that our greatest need in life is more common sense."

Discussing the "great outcry" in the United States against the constant outpouring of statutes and judicial decisions, Wilbur declared that the man "who complains against the flood of judicial decisions is complaining against the flood of life, for these decisions present to the inquiring mind the investigations of trained minds into new problems of life."

Flood of Legislation

"It is as impossible," the secretary said, "to check the flood of legislation and judicial decisions as it is to restore life to its condition 100 or 500 years ago. If legislators refuse to act, men must somehow work out rules of action for their guidance under new conditions, and these rules will ultimately acquire the force of law."

Wilbur also pleaded for common sense in the controversies between religion and science.

"We need common sense in religion," he said. "If the Bible is the inspired word of God, as we believe, then He created the universe and left the record of that creation forever inscribed upon all created things."

Influenza, Pneumonia Deaths In U. S. Lower

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Influenza and pneumonia caused 764 deaths in 103 cities in the United States during the week ending May 16, the public health service announced today. The deaths from the same diseases in a similar period last year totaled 792. The number of cases is less than in the same period last year.

Frederick Cook Thinks Amundsen Party Safe

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Frederick Cook, whose claim that he was the first man to reach the North pole has been disputed, believes that the Amundsen airplane expedition to the pole will be successful and that members of the party are safe somewhere in the polar regions. Cook, who is now serving a sentence in the Leavenworth penitentiary for operating a swindling scheme in Texas, expressed this opinion today in a personal letter to a friend in Washington.

Al Jennings Wants to Defend Cafe Actress

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—Al Jennings, bank robber, evangelist and once candidate for governor of Oklahoma, announced today he would seek admission to the California bar so as to defend the name of Mrs. Hazel Garland, cafe entertainer, in connection with her arrest on charges of conspiracy to rob J. C. Mitchell, wealthy Trinidad, Colo., business man. Jennings said he was anxious to defend the girl because she "hit the sawdust trail" at one of his evangelistic meetings.

Prisoners Attempt To Mutiny; One Man Shot

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 10.—One prisoner was shot and perhaps fatally wounded and another was severely beaten today in quelling what was described as an apparently well-organized attempt at mutiny in the pants factory of the state prison here. J. R. Cook, a guard, also was severely beaten and clubbed, but will recover, physicians said. The prisoners injured were Frank Inman of Pettis county, Mo., shot in the abdomen, and Tony Strada, Kansas City.

Lewis Gets Permit To Purchase Oil Wells

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—E. G. Lewis, California promoter and former St. Louis publisher, whose $10,000,000 bankrupt estate is in controversy here in federal court, was granted permission today by Federal Judge James to spend $60,000 in the purchase of two oil wells in Kern county, California. Ten per cent of the money received from the sale of oil must be returned to the estate until the $60,000 is repaid.

Four Ball Players To Face Assault Charges

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—Four members of the Philadelphia American league baseball club, Ed Rommel, Cy Perkins, Ira Thomas and Gordon Cochrane, pleaded not guilty today when they were arraigned before Magistrate O'Conor on charges of assault and battery and disorderly conduct.

The newly organized progressive

Dayton club has chosen a committee to make arrangements for taking care of housing visitors.

After canvassing the town, the committee announced that homes here can accommodate 1500 guests, and that with the aid of summer resorts and neighboring towns, 5000 persons can easily be housed, with unlimited space for camping and parking cars.

Court will be in session only four hours a day, so the trial will last several weeks. All aboard for Dayton!

FIND 'LOST' GIRL

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Vrenna Dinsmore, 15, of Wash., was in the Detention home today following her discovery here by police officers who said they had been requested by the young girl's mother in Seattle to locate the young girl. SPEAKERS FAVOR ISSUE OF BONDS

School Finance Discussed at Luncheon of Glendale
Merchants Today

Arguments in favor of the proposed school bond issues were advanced by Dr. T. C. Young and Ed Radke at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Merchants' association today noon at the Masonic temple.

Members were urged to support the banquet for merchants and their wives June 25 at the Oakmont Country club. The merchants voted to endorse the exposition fostered by the American Legion and also endorsed the program outlined by the Glendale Music club for the coming season. Wesley Kuhne urged purchase of memberships in the music club.

Idaho Grain Elevator Is Destroyed By Fire

LEWISTON, Idaho, June 10.—Damage estimated today at $110,000 was done by fire which destroyed a large grain elevator containing 40,000 bushels of wheat at Grangeville, Idaho, seven miles east of here, yesterday. The blaze, of undetermined origin, burned several hours. T. F. Wren of Fenn, Idaho, recently sold the wheat at $1.45 a bushel.

French Foreign Office
Alarmed Over Opposition

PARIS, June 10.—Alarmed at the intensity of the opposition to Franco-British accord aroused in Great Britain, the French foreign office today attempted to set the vehicle of peace pact negotiations back on its wheels and in smooth transit.

A foreign office spokesman in conference with foreign correspondents denied that Great Britain had actually placed its army and fleet at France's disposal in the event of aggressions in the Rhine district.

He expressed regret that American and British newspapers had published Britain's reported willingness to preserve Rhine border integrity with British arms.

"Never a word was mentioned between Foreign Secretary Chamberlain and Minister Briand concerning the British fleet or British army," he said. "This was purely the newspapermen's deduction."

He said the British obligation was summed up in the word "guaranty" which was enough for France.

"It is false for the press to make British guaranty appear as a treaty of military alliance," the foreign office spokesman asserted. "The British act of guaranteeing the Rhine frontiers absolutely should not be compared with the Franco-Polish and Franco-Czechoslovakian alliance which specifies military aid."

France Still Has Hope
U. S. Will Join In Pact

PARIS, June 10.—France is hopeful that the United States may yet recant and desire to join in the security pact to guarantee French borders, despite the fact the Senate turned President Wilson down on the same proposal, according to the Temps today.

LOST BALLOON AND PILOTS UNTRACED

Belgica Wins Gordon Bennett
Cup While Sister Ship
Fails To Show Up

BRUSSELS, June 10.—The Belgian Aero club today requested all marine craft in the vicinity of the English channel and the west and north coasts of France to keep a sharp lookout for the Belgian balloon "Prince Leopold," with the Belgian pilot, Veenstra, and his aide, Quersin, aboard.

This is the only balloon of the eighteen which left Brussels Sunday afternoon in an international race for the Gordon Bennett cup which has failed to land.

The two men in the missing balloon were not equipped with life belts, aero club officials said.

Ernest De Myer, who piloted the Belgica, was today unofficially declared the winner of the race. He made 800 kilometers, about 420 miles. It was the fifth consecutive race he has won.

Major Valle, the Italian pilot, was second, his distance being 540 kilometers.

Wade Van Orman of Ohio, flying one American entry, lost a place in the final result because his balloon fell in the sea. The Americans, Flood and McCormick, were expected to be given seventh or eighth place.

British Premier Defends Plan For Protection

Nations fights in the United States Senate.

There are large numbers of isolationists in England and if Lord Beaverbrook can rally them to his banner he can make the fight interesting. It has been whispered in parliamentary circles that Lord Beaverbrook is anxious to launch a new political party.

While the Morning Post and other government-influenced newspapers strongly support the security pact, there was a disposition on the part of Liberal papers to be more critical.

Representatives of the dominions were diffident toward the pact. Apparently they were fearful it meant Great Britain would be tied up in securing the defense of Europe that it could not give the dominions full protection.

The British dominions will not be consulted in regard to the security pact until the pact is ready for signature, the foreign office stated today. When the document is ready the dominions will be asked to approve.

Newspaper Opposes Italy
Joining Britain In Pact

ROME, June 10.—Italy should not join Great Britain in the security pact to protect France's western borders because the Alpian border is excluded from the pact, the newspaper Messaggero said today.

Italy is making direct overtures to Germany, the Messaggero declared, for a security agreement covering the Alpian border.

Venice Canals Doomed! Autos Fill Them Up!

VENICE, Cal., June 10.—This city's picturesque system of canals was dealt a death blow by the automobile.

Alarmed at tremendous increases in traffic along the beaches and into Venice, the city Board of Trustees voted to fill in the city's canals and convert them into boulevards and streets.

More than three miles of the canals, which made this beach resort a duplicate of Italy's Venice, will be filled in, city officials said.

The Glendale Realty board, after an hour's discussion in conference with bankers and business men of the city today noon, voted to recommend a survey of business property rentals throughout the downtown business section of Glendale.

J. F. McElroy, Charles B. Guthrie, S. S. Gilbly, L. A. Hart, William L. Truitt, Peter Hanson and other members of the realty board supported the plans for the survey, declaring that rents in Glendale business property are exorbitant and that similar locations can be had in Pasadena and other cities at 33 per cent less in rental rates.

Downtown business property in Los Angeles in many instances is but little higher than in Glendale, they declared. This condition is not only keeping out many business firms, but driving others from the city, it was declared.

Lyman P. Clark and S. F. Bell

spoke in behalf of the Glendale Merchants' association, representing 200 leading merchants of the city. They advocated a reduction in rents which they declared were out of reason at the present time.

Bankers Speak

R. F. Kitterman and C. C. Cooper spoke for the Glendale Clearing House association, summarily supporting a stabilizing of rents. E. V. Black, head of the real estate department of the Pacific Southwest bank, favored the gathering of information on rental prices and the stabilizing of rents.

A committee of the realty board, headed by J. F. McElroy and including Charles B. Guthrie, E. P. Hayward, and Spencer Robinson, will work out detailed plans for a survey in which they will seek the co-operation of other organizations.

The Realtors met at the Egyptian Village cafe at noon, President William L. Twining presiding.

"First—His holiness, Pope Pius, never sanctioned and never has been asked to sanction a marriage between any daughter of mine and the person referred to.

"Second—I have never sought or held an interview with that gentleman nor have I ever seen him.

"Third—I know of no engagement existing between him and my daughter."

The newspaper story referred to stated that Miss Ellin Mackay would marry Berlin through a special dispensation from the pope.

Ralph Race was appointed chairman of the advertising committee, to succeed Earl Shook, resigned.

Clark For Head Of Traffic Body

Will Handle Major Plan to Adjust Difficulties

In Glendale

Lynn Clark was today appointed chairman of the major traffic plan committee of the Glendale Traffic commission, with Frank Eckles, Val Hollister, H. J. Lockwood and Bert Woodard associated with him. Members of the commission met today at the Egyptian Village cafe.

S. C. Packer and Herman Nelson were named members of the traffic regulation committee. No chairman has been selected as yet. R. E. Johnson was made chairman of the rapid transit committee. With him are associated William Baker, P. L. Hatch, L. T. Rowley and William McMillan. Dr. T. C. Young was made chairman of the aviation committee. Members are W. B. Kinner and A. H. Lankford.

Major Traffic Plan

Under the major traffic plan as compiled by the Los Angeles traffic commission Glendale and the San Fernando valley will eventually receive rapid transit via an elevated railroad to connect with a subway at Sunset and Glendale boulevards in Los Angeles, according to L. T. Rowley, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce highway and bridges committee.

The subway will continue to Sunset and Broadway, he said.

At the Los Angeles river the elevated would cross between the present Pacific Electric bridge and the Glendale avenue bridge, with a junction on the north bank of the river to extend down the San Fernando valley, lowering to a surface track after Los Feliz road is crossed.

Paralleling the Southern Pacific tracks, it would continue to the branch that runs to Lankershim, said Rowley.

Next Meeting

The Brand boulevard elevated, he explained, would "continue to Arden junction on North Brand boulevard where it would lower to a surface track.

The traffic commission will meet hereafter every second and fourth Monday noon at the Egyptian Village cafe instead of Wednesday as at present.

Under the provisions of a resolution adopted today all major projects before the commission will be presented to the public through service organizations and various clubs before definite action is taken by the commission, or formal resolutions are placed before the commission before the City Council or other city body.
